

Cranberry Dessert Sauce

Makes about 1 cup, enough to accompany 1 pie

- ½ cup sugar
- ½ cup orange juice
- ¾ cup fresh or frozen cranberries, picked over for stems
- 1 tablespoon orange liqueur

This is a good alternative to Berry Mash in winter when good fresh berries are scarce.

1. Combine the sugar, orange juice, and cranberries in a medium-size saucepan and bring the pot to a boil. Reduce the heat to medium-low and simmer the mixture until the sugar is dissolved, the cranberries have begun to fall apart, and the sauce is thickened, about 5 to 7 minutes.
2. Remove the pot from the heat, stir in the liqueur, and let the sauce cool completely. Serve the sauce cold. Cranberry Dessert Sauce will keep, refrigerated in an airtight container, for up to 1 week.

Raspberry Coulis

Makes about 1 cup, enough to accompany 1 pie

Raspberry Coulis adds color and flavor to many icebox pies.

- One 12-ounce bag frozen raspberries, thawed
- ¼ cup confectioners' sugar, or more
to taste
- 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice, or more to taste

1. Place the raspberries in a blender or the workbowl of a food processor and process them until they are smooth.
2. Push the purée through a fine mesh strainer to remove the seeds. Stir in the sugar and lemon juice to taste. Raspberry Coulis will keep, refrigerated in an airtight container, for up to 3 days, or in the freezer for up to 6 months.

Mango Coulis

Makes about 1 cup, enough to accompany 1 pie

Use this bright orange sauce as you would use Raspberry Coulis—to add color and acidic flavor to icebox pie.

- One 14-ounce bag frozen mango
purée, thawed
- 2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar,
or more to taste
- 1 tablespoon fresh lime juice, or more
to taste

Push the mango purée through a fine mesh strainer to remove any strings or tough fibers. Stir in the sugar and lime juice to taste. Mango Coulis will keep, refrigerated in an airtight container, for up to 3 days, or in the freezer for up to 6 months.
