

Piña Colada Pie

Makes one 9-inch pie; 6 to 8 servings

2 tablespoons cold water
2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
 $\frac{2}{3}$ cup sugar
3 large eggs
One 6-ounce can pineapple juice
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup unsweetened coconut milk
 $\frac{3}{4}$ cup heavy cream, chilled
1 prepared crumb crust

1. Place the cold water in a small stainless-steel bowl and sprinkle the gelatin over the water. Let the gelatin stand to dissolve.

2. Put 2 inches of water in a medium-size saucepan and bring the pot to a bare simmer. Whisk the sugar, eggs, pineapple juice, and coconut milk together in a medium-size stainless-steel bowl and place the bowl on top of the simmering water, making sure that the bottom of the bowl doesn't touch the water. Heat, whisking constantly, until the mixture registers 160 degrees on an instant-read thermometer.

3. Remove the bowl from the pan of water and whisk in the gelatin mixture. Set the bowl over a larger bowl of ice cubes and let the pineapple mixture stand, whisking occasionally, until it has begun to thicken, about 10 minutes.

4. In a medium-size mixing bowl using an electric mixer, whip the heavy cream until it holds soft peaks. Gently fold the whipped cream into the pineapple mixture.

5. Scrape the filling into the prepared pie shell. Cover the pie with plastic wrap and refrigerate it until the filling is completely set, at least 6 hours and up to 1 day.

CHOOSING A CRUST

DRESSING IT UP

Drizzle some Mango Coulis (page 131) over slices of pie. Garnish each serving with some fresh raspberries if you like.
